The Award Winning Willesley Park Golf Club

Located in the heart of England, the land-locked county of Leicestershire is definitely one where visitors are able to experience the great outdoors and, one of the friendliest regions that you'll come across on your golfing travels.

Leicestershire encompasses stunning countryside and some of the country's finest golf course. For a real taste of the golf courses that are located in Leicestershire, you'll need a few days to soak it all up. With this in mind, the county offers a mixture of accommodation providers, each with attractive packages for visiting golfing groups.

With the Rivers Soar, Avon and Welland meandering through the county, Leicestershire has become increasing well known for its impressive collection of parkland golf courses; some of which have produced some fine golfers such as two times British Amateur champion and Walker Cup legend, Gary Wolstenholme.

All in all, the county can offer visitors a memorable afternoon's golf which should not be missed.

Celebrating its Centenary Year in 2020, Willesley Park Golf Club was laid out on an existing mature parkland in 1920. The golf course has an enviable heritage and reputation as the home of the annual Leicestershire Fox golf tournament. Previous winners of the Leicestershire Fox, held at Willesley Park Golf Club include Peter McEvoy, Mark James, Gary Wolstenholme and Andy Sullivan.

Memorable for all the right reasons

The beautiful heath and parkland course is set in the National Forest in North West Leicestershire boasting fantastic views of the surrounding countryside and historic town of Ashby de la Zouch.

Winding its way through 230 acres of picturesque Leicestershire countryside, Willesley Park is the stunning setting for one of the Midlands' premier golf venues. The par 70 golf course measures 6, 290 yards from the championship tees with the generous tree-lined fairways and excellent putting surfaces offer a fair challenge to golfers of all levels.

Each of Willesley Park's golf holes has its own unique character and, is aptly named to represent this with titles such as Spinney, Lakeside, Meadowside and Town View. The course requires accuracy from the tee and good course management to play to handicap, while it features strategically-placed bunkers and plenty of sloping fairways to test one's long game, as well as fast-running, well-protected greens requiring the utmost attention when chipping and putting.

Relax and unwind...

Willesley Park's excellently-appointed clubhouse is set on one level offering fine hospitality in comfortable surroundings overlooking the golf course. The Club's restaurant is open daily with varying menus and a well-stocked bar offering beers, wines, spirits and soft drinks.

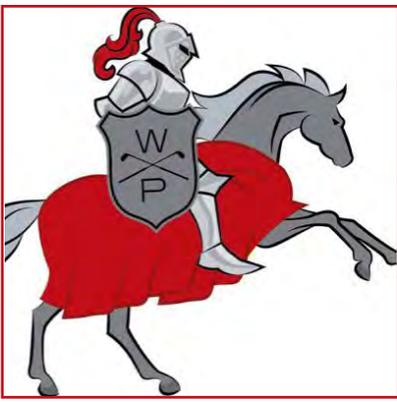

The clubhouse is also the home of the highly-regarded, Willesley Park professional shop.

Led by Head PGA Professional, Ben Hill who has over twenty years' experience as one of Leicestershire leading golf pros, the shop stocks equipment, clothing and accessories from the game's leading manufacturers.

With extensive knowledge in all golfing matters, Ben and his team can offer expert advice and tuition for all aspect of one's game as well as providing comprehensive support for visiting society groups, ensuring the smooth running of their golf event.

With this in mind, visitor and society groups are welcome to the award-winning, Willesley Park throughout the year with a range of prices based on group numbers which can be tailored to meet the needs and requirements of the visiting party. Society groups can also take advantage of extensive society menus, whether its breakfast, a three course evening meal or anything in between.

For golf breaks, Willesley Park work in conjunction with local accommodation providers who come highly recommended.
